

YOU'RE INVITED TO A MAGICAL STORY CHAIN

The Book That Travelled the World

Pick up a pen, "frend". This story needs you!

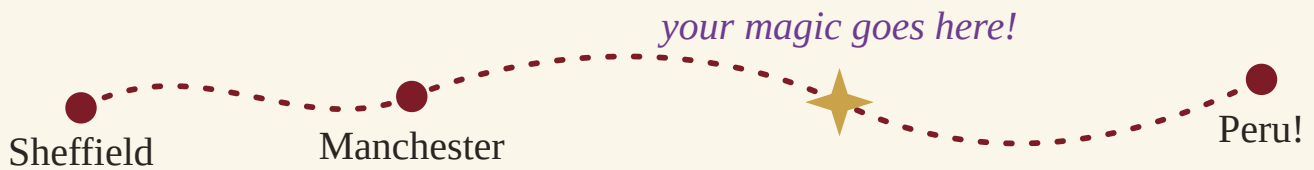

Once upon a time, in a city of seven hills, there lived a boy called Jude. He had a tall purple hat and a book that fizzed with magic. He had chosen it from the shelves of the Book Factory, a magical place where every book was bursting with adventure and fun. Grown-ups thought it was just an ordinary book, but children knew better.

He travelled with it all the way from Sheffield to Manchester, holding it tight, because its words and pictures kept trying to escape. You see, the book longed to find someone to take somewhere new, and to fill their head and heart with adventure. Inside the cover he wrote, "Pleez read me, then hide me for a new frend to find. Luv from Jude." Then he tucked it somewhere secret, tipped his hat and whispered, "Off you go!" The book gave a wriggle, a giggle and a flutter of its pages... and WHOOSH! In a shower of sparkles, its big adventure had begun.

Book drawn by Jude

A true story...

Jude loved hiding books for others to find. He and his frends (that's how Jude spelt it!) tucked books into secret spots with labels on them to let people know they could take them. One day Jude took a book to Manchester and hid it there. Months later, it popped up in Peru! Nobody knows how it got there... so let's imagine its adventure together.

Where did the magic take it?

Who found the book peeping out of its hiding place? A curious child, a sleepy cat, a grumpy giant?

How did it travel? A pirate ship, a dragon's back, a hot air balloon or a very kind seagull?

Where did the book whisk its new "frend" away to, and what adventures did they have?

Where did the book tuck itself away, waiting for its next "frend" to find it?

Add your sprinkle of magic

- 1 On a story strip, write one or two sentences about one stop on the book's journey, starting with who found it. Funny, brave, magical or completely bonkers, every idea is welcome!
- 2 Sign it with your first name.
- 3 Take it to one of the drop off points. More details on our website.

No printer, or not a writer yet? Feel free to drop us a message or email and tell us your story, and we can write it for you.

Every sentence becomes a link in the paper chain around our tree at the Sheffield Cathedral Christmas Tree Festival from 3rd December, and the whole story will be printed for everyone to read.
